PATROL POLICE ACTIVITIES IN GEORGIA

Georgia patrol police is a government service that ensures citizen's the freedom and security.

To become a patrol policeman, you should have training at the police academy.

Education at the academy lasts three months, because most future policemen have higher education.

The contest competition at the Police Academy is 50 candidates per a position. This fact indicates the prestige of service.

At the entrance exam you should give answers to one hundred questions. Sixty correct answers give you an opportunity to be invited to the interview. Applicants who have an above-average IQ are enrolled in police. The candidates take tests in psychology in order to check their stability, aggressiveness and intelligence.

Having entered the Academy a cadet receives a training program. Only English is used, the choice of other subjects depends on the specialization (patrol officers, detectives, local inspectors). Role-playing games are used in training, checks and tests are often arranged.

Video cameras are used to observe the cadets during the exam. Education is free. Approximately 70 % of cadets complete the academy successfully. Those who passed the exam for the second time are not allowed to take them again.

Education is not limited to three months. Police officers regularly undergo training programs that lasts from one to two weeks, than they receive certificates of a new specialization (for example, a detective).
